Look for the August issue on digital newsstands (iPad, iPhone, Kindle Fire and Nook) July 15 and on print newsstands July 29.

Authors and photographers are available for interviews. Photos and video are available.

Our special eight-month series exploring issues of food security and sustainability continues this month with a look at hunger in America. Visit natgeofood.com.

Before Stonehenge
One long-ago day around 3200 B.C., the farmers and herdsmen on Scotland’s remote Orkney Islands decided to build something big…
(by Roff Smith, photographs by Jim Richardson)

FOOD: The New Face of Hunger
Millions of working Americans don’t know where their next meal is coming from.
(by Tracie McMillan, photographs by Amy Toensing, Kitra Cahana and Stephanie Sinclair)

Gombe Family Album
Celebrating her 80th year, Jane Goodall reflects on her career of getting to know unforgettable chimps.
(by David Quammen, photographs by Anup Shah and Fiona Rogers)

The Meaning of North
In the high Russian Arctic archipelago of Franz Josef Land, the melting ice is bringing changes.
(by David Quammen, photographs by Cory Richards)

The Hidden World of the Great War
Trench-fighting soldiers of World War I left behind a legacy underground.
(by Evan Hadingham, photographs by Jeffrey Gusky)

National Geographic magazine is the official journal of the National Geographic Society, one of the world’s largest nonprofit scientific and educational organizations. Published in English and 39 local-language editions, the magazine has a global circulation of around 6.8 million. It is sent each month to National Geographic members and is available on newsstands for $5.99 a copy. Single copies can be ordered by calling (800) NGS-LINE, also the number to call for membership to the Society.

###

CONTACT: Anna Kukelhaus Dynan
+1 (202) 775-6717
akukelha@ngs.org